LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Well here I am again with no letter, so I'll make do with some things that have been brought to my attention over the past month. First I would like to apologize for certain errors made in last month's issue of the Dialog in which the S.L.A.C. information was cut up and miss placed.

I would also like to inform students that your S.A.C. offers a drug and accident plan which covers up to 80% of your prescription costs not including birth control. It was recently told to me that a few students who could really benefit from this were unaware of this program.

This past month G.B.C. and S.A.C. welcomed the S.N.A. (say that 10 times fast, Student Nursing Association). The Nursing divisional Reps. this past month made a presentation to the S.A.C. to help fund an organization in which would help nursing students cover costs for certain medical requirements they must pay which are very excessive. With the introduction of the C.S.N.A., future nursing students won't have to worry about costs for shots that are required to be taken for their course.

Next I wish to talk about the lovely French Fry truck parked out in front of our college. What a lovely sight that truck is, and how convenient that there is to brand new "No Parking" signs to replace the once existing parking meters. As far as that goes, the College or the City, whoever let them park there and get rid of the parking meters is just making a bad parking situation worse. Even worse, that has to be the worst way to make an impression on prospective new students.

If I were coming to G.B.C. for the first time I would be, to say the least, disgusted at the sight. The truck is both unappealing and it smells. Yuck! Aside from that, the best hot dogs in the city were made on our very street, on our very block, but for some reason he wasn't allowed a permit, after being in the same spot for over two years. Mysteriously the chip truck acquired a permit, George the Hot Dog man gets tossed and so do the parking meters right where the chip truck parks.

Something smells, and it's not good food!

ness of the Fund as well as money. We also have an idea that we hope will raise up to $8,000 annually for the Fund. ALL GBC STUDENTS (FULL TIME, TUITION SHORT, CONTINUING ED.) ARE ELIGIBLE.

We know lack of finances in emergency situations is a crucial issue for all our students.

Let's not complain or sympathize - let's "JUST DO IT". If you want to become involved, call Franky (867-2674) or drop into the SAC Office at your campus.

Speaker's Corner

In January we are hoping to set-up our first Speaker's Corner at St. James and Nightingale. We will be at both campuses on two separate days to try to accommodate all students. Please contact Rick Hunter at St. James or Tarcey Low at Nightingale if you have any suggestions or comments. Thank you to Wayne Herd in Audio Visual for agreeing to assist us. An edited version of your comments will be presented at an Open Meeting of the Student Life Advisory Committee. We hope to provide a similar opportunity at Casa Loma and Kensington in the Spring. SPECIAL NOTES

Wanda Cousins, General Arts and Science student has been elected as our Mature Student Representative on College Council. Wanda has already attended a College Council meeting and a Student Issues meeting. Wanda also writes a column for Mature Students - look for it in this issue.

Cold Weather Warning for Pets

The Toronto Humane Society warns pet owners to keep their pets indoors as the temperatures drop below 0C.

These cold temperatures are extremely dangerous to pets, especially those who are indoor/outdoor pets. Living indoors and then sometimes outdoors does not allow the cat or dog to fully develop a thick coat of fur and layers of fat to protect them in cold weather. Young pets are especially susceptible to the cold. Anyone wishing more information can contact the Toronto Humane Society at 392-2273.

MUSINGS FROM A MATURE STUDENT

By
Wanda Cousins

On Thursday, November 12, I met with the College Council as a representative of mature students. The discussions were lively and informative, and provided me with much needed insight as to what comprises such committees. College council is made up of a variety of Administration, Faculty, Support Staff, and Students who share many common interests, one of them being the students of GBC. These people are genuinely concerned and very eager to resolve any issues which affect the students' well being while at college.

Although this meeting was my very first, I came away feeling enthusiastic and determined to succeed in making George Brown the college with a difference. One of my priorities in implementing this change is to be able to be available to hear your concerns, as a mature student, with regard to issues that may crop up from time to time. This could ultimately be the difference to your success in becoming a college graduate or a college drop-out.

I am there as your voice! Soremember, if work is too much, teachers to indifferent or other students are harassing you, please let me know. At George Brown we believe there are always solutions to a problem.

I can be reached through the SAC office, located just a few feet away from the cafeteria, on the lower level. Leave a message and please address any correspondence to me: Wanda Cousins

Bye for now. One way to eliminate enemies is to turn them into friends!

If you do not specify "confidential", I may print both your letter and an answer in the next issue.

Denzel Washington as "Malcolm X"

On Nov 10, 1992, I viewed the Malcom X movie. It is based on the book "The Autobiography of Malcom X as told to Alex Haley." The movie shares his preception on race relations and the status of African Americans in society.

I can unequivocally say that MALCOM X is very powerful and inspiring film. At first, I was concerned about how the Spike Lee, was going to portray the hero of so many and whether outside influences were going to omit the characteristics that made this dynamic leader what he was, and still is, in the hearts of those who admire and respect him today.

This quote from Malcom X shares his desires and hope for equality among all human beings. This quote truly highlights his beliefs.

"WE DECLARE OUR RIGHT ON THIS EARTH TO BE A MAN, TO BE A HUMAN BEING, TO BE RESPECTED AS A HUMAN BEING, TO BE GIVEN THE RIGHTS OF A HUMAN BEING, IN THIS SOCIETY, ON THIS EARTH, IN THIS DAY, WHICH WE INTEND TO BRING INTO EXISTANCE BY ANY MEANS NECESSARY."

This film clearly depicts him refusing to perceive himself or others of his race as second-class citizens; he articulated his radical views on race relations and the status of African-Americans in society, and his changed American social politics forever.

In his struggle he gained international recognition for his fight for equality.

At the time Malcom was alive black people could not vote, ride in the front of a bus, or attend school with non-ethnic students. Witnessing the pain and suffering which were constantly around him hardened him and directed him towards making a change without "passive resistance" waiting for it. He knew that in order to gain respect you must first be respectful of the norms, but without being passive.

The film speaks for itself. It covers the truths as they were and to a great degree still are in today's society. He had lived the life of the socially oppressed and demotivated with a clear understanding of his life experience; I found his fight justified and noble.

People were fascinated by his candor, his belief, and his drive for peace and equality. (You cannot get peace without equality, not peace of mind but peace of heart.)

Denzel Washington's portrayal of Malcom was inspiring. He captured the feelings of Alex Haley's words from Malcom, and delivered it with the charisma characteristics of Malcom. Angela Bassett's role as his wife was demonstrated through her love, compassion and hope, which were an extension of her belief in her husband.

It takes bright enlightened individuals to create a film of this magnitude about a great man, whom so many misunderstood, but never underestimated. He was killed in 1965.

To the unaware, become aware. To the angered, seek knowledge, don't base anger on ignorance. To the aware, take pride. To the strong. To all, peace be with you. Spike Lee covered all the basis in this film and when I left the screening I was excited because he had opened the door for us to create more films about all of our great leaders.

ONE

Earlier this month I had the opportunity to talk with a couple of band members of the group "ONE". Listening to their music kind of throws a person off balance, but in a good way. They have a heavy reggae beat with a lot of hot guitar that shows their rock side. According to lead singer Chris Taylor their music is like "Acid Test meets Reggae". These guys now how to party and get the crowd, all across Canada and the U.S., they believe that their biggest following is out west, but love playing here anytime. Their recent C.D. release, "A Matter of Truth" was recorded at Blue Wave Studios in Barbados with help from the likes of Eddie Grant, Maria Delmar and Fujiwara, and this C.D. is hot! As well as having a great C.D. these guys put on a great live show for any music lover. It's really hard not to like these guys and their "Rock injected Reggae" and their pumped up stage presence. Recently they were nominated for "Best reggae, ska act" for the Casby Awards. If you want to catch these guys live they will in Toronto from December to February.

MARIO'S CORNER

Here are just a few thoughts I've had this month:

-If I had a choice, I'd rather be too sexy than too funky - only because I don't know what it means to be too funky.

-Now that the Jays have won it all and the Leafs are having their best season in 15 years, I wonder if Toronto will be needing a bigger and better bandwagon. By the way, I still have my Ian Turnbull jersey.

-It's been over a month since Canada voted NO, but now what's supposed to happen. If Quebec went on their merry way, would Montreal still be called the Canadians?

-I really don't like that French Fry truck in front of St. James.

Don't know why, but it just rubs me the wrong way.

DESERT ISLAND ALBUM REVIEW

EDITORS NOTE: The writer of this article has been out of touch with reality for quite a while due to his being stranded on a desert island. To help him assimilate to modern day life, he is being kept in a vacuum packed room and shown only television programs like, The Mod Squad, Gilligans Island and The Partridge Family.

In order to satisfy his undeniable right to contribute to bad publications, he is being allowed to contribute one article a month to the paper.

MEAT LOAF SUCKS BIG WITH "BAT OUT OF HELL"

Wow!!! That's all I can say is, Wow. This has got to be the worst album to ever have been made. The mediocrity of the whole thing is undeniable.

Considering this, an album so bad that you can't stand to even put it on your new technologically advanced turntable, (the one with the little arm that lets you put the needle down wherever you want it on the record without scratching it.). One must wonder why a record company would invest money into an album that's destined to a quick death on the charts, not making them dollar one.

There is not one song on the album that evokes even the smallest of emotions. Its as if it was made for a dog or even a goat. I take that back, dogs have taste, they eat their own excrement don't they?

This album sucks big time, it really SUCKS. I can't tell you how much it sucks. It just sucks. Boney M must be rolling over in their shiny disco coffins right now.

I'm upset. Give me a good ABBA album anyway.

"WHALEMUSIC" DEMONSTRATES VIBRANT TORONTO MUSIC SCENE

Toronto band, "THE RHEOSTATICS" have released their third album, "WHALEMUSIC", and by all accounts it is the best of the three. Some might think by the title that it would consist of the weird sounds of whale foreplay and sex, but it is actually a collection of tunes ranging from the raunchy RDA (rock death America) to the mood creating CALIFORNIA DREAMLINE.

It seems that the Reo's have really found their niche as a band. The superb musicianship and well constructed vocals complement their socially conscious, narrative and funny lyrics. This is an album that would complement almost any setting yet it remains unique. It was produced by the increasingly popular Michael Phillip-Wojewoda, (Barenaked Ladies) and was recorded in Toronto at Reaction Studios.

If you are looking for something a little different in the way of great music, I recommend that you run to your nearest record store and check out, "WHALEMUSIC".

Dear Editor,

We are concerned, frustrated, and hurt student leaders in this Community College. As elected representatives of the student body we are also fed up, and will no longer accept "I'm sorry", as an excuse for lack of and miscommunication problems within our College.

It is no secret that all large organizations experience communication problems regularly. We can accept this and have on a number of occasions. However, we cannot and will not accept that we see no visible measures being pursued to rectify the situation. We have so far this year been left out of two major decisions directly affecting students. (Cancellation of classes for Performance Appraisal Staff Training, and the critical dates, i.e. August 31 start dates). We accepted "I'm sorry", for these two incidents. We have repeatedly been informed of meetings the day before, the day of, and even the day after their occurrence. We are rarely given the courteous gesture of being asked what is convenient for us. We appreciate being included on the majority of internal committees, and we acknowledge that the College has realized how essential student input is, but again, "I'm sorry is no longer acceptable.

Due to our full time schedules it is difficult to attend all meetings, and virtually impossible to attend when we are not informed at all or given appropriate notice. We are sensitive to the fact that some meetings are called unexpectedly and are not referring to those emergency situations. We are beginning to feel that as students we may be purposely forgotten, because we could slow down the process. There have been at least two incidents where students have been the only committee members that were not informed of meetings, minutes and other important information. There have been assurances that this is not the case, however, we need to see and be part of positive and tangible efforts to correct the communication breakdown within our College.

This is not a direct attack on any one person or persons in particular. This is a general and valid concern that we know is shared by many in the College Community. It is unfortunate that this concern is shared by many, yet few have actually taken any initiative to reach out to the entire Community. We appeal to any who share this concern and invite you to join us to establish an effective communication plan that will serve as a model for the entire College. This invitation is extended to all staff and all students. If you would like to address ours and perhaps your anger and frustrations, please drop by, or send responses to the SAC office at your campus.

As student leaders we have committed to making this issue a priority and need to communicate with all constituents in order to implement an effective communication plan.

Sincerely,
Jocelyn Dance
Student Executive Council Chair

Dear Editor,

Thank you for allowing me to comment on Jocelyn Dance's letter to the editor. (Given the time between issues I think it is a wise policy that when a letter "begs an answer" you allow one to do so in the same issue.)

Firstly, I share Miss Dance's frustration. When I came to the College I knew we had held Town Hall meetings for staff, provided an open forum for students, created a position Director, Student Services, established the Student Life Advisory Committee, and put in place a myriad of planning and advisory processes which are highly participatory. Even the new format of City College News with its Editorial page to provide a forum for Miss Dance's frustration or last month a similar letter involving concerns related to our physical environment are attempts to improve communication.

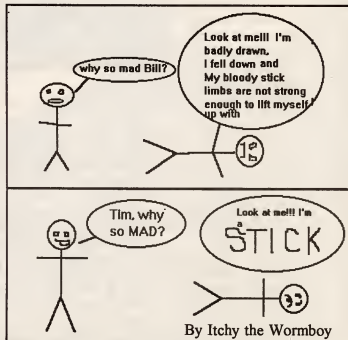

However, I'm the first to admit there is still a tremendous amount to be done. Therefore, I commend Jocelyn for demonstrating positive and proactive leadership on this issue. Please add my name to the list of staff members willing to join her in this endeavour and I encourage others to do the same.

Yours sincerely,
John J. Rankin

Letter to the President of the St. James Student Council

To President of the S.A.C

Dear President:

When the students of China protested at Tienanmen Square and a single person stood up to the Chinese army, the world rejoiced. When The Wall was taken down re-uniting the two Germanys, the world rejoiced. When many other eastern block countries abandoned Communism and adopted Democracy, the world rejoiced. After events, you should be able to understand how surprised I was when I recently saw posted around campus, posters regarding the proposed spring break trip to Cuba. In this climate of environmental concerns, racial problems, political correctness and human rights concerns, I was very surprised that any one person would consider a trip to Cuba—much less an establishment like George Brown College Promote one. Of the many places one can go to find the sun at that time of year, and of the very few remaining communist countries, I am puzzled that Cuba was even considered.

For the last thirty-three years, the people of Cuba have been waiting—and they are still waiting. For what? I'm sure that they no longer know. What I do know, is that the people of Cuba no longer have the bare necessities that that country so easily produced for itself so long ago. People now wait in line-ups over night in the hope that they will receive a ration of whatever there might be if anything. People now have no running water for their washrooms nor electricity for their televisions, or gasoline for their public transit. Remarkable, the army carries on at whatever expense and Fidel Castro has an escape plane waiting for him 24 hours in the event that he should have to leave.

The above problems are allowed to continue because of the money that is allowed to filter its way into Cuba. Since the fall of the iron curtain and communism in the eastern block countries, financial support from those countries to Cuba has trickled to a minimum. One of the major incomes that Cuba has is its tourist industry. Money that enters Cuba does not assist the Cubans with job creation, raise the standard of living or give to them freedom of speech, the right to vote or the freedom to travel within or outside their country.

The very things that we take for granted here at George Brown—to join a demonstration, to walk on the street with whom ever we wish, to travel, to study whatever we wish and wherever we wish—have been kept from the people of Cuba for many years. Travelling to Cuba supports that which we fight against here. How can you promote this trip as a fun time, to relax and forget about a cold winter or a tough term paper? I hope that you will seriously consider more than the hot sun and the white sand.

The author has not given us permission to print this letter and due to the fact we could not find the author, to get permission printing the name of the author would be unfair and unprofessional.

Dear Concerned Student,

I would like to thank you for your letter dated November 2, 1992, regarding our promotion of the Cuba trip for our March break. I am writing to you on behalf of the entire Student Administrative Council. Your letter was read at the Student Administrative Council meeting on November 2, 1992. It created a very lengthy and concerned discussion. We appreciated the very eloquent manner in which you brought this matter to our attention, and we admit that we had not thought of this aspect in making our decision.

The decision was based on offering a "quality" vacation for students at an affordable price. Quality was defined as a safe environment that provided clean comfortable accommodation, a reasonable guarantee of good weather, and a travel company that is reliable. The package offers three meals a day included in the price which many destinations do not offer.

I have been to Cuba on one other occasion and I do realize the restrictions that Cubans have. I have also learned that there are ways of offering gratuities to the employees in restaurants and stores. The Council voted in favour of continuing the promotion of the trip to Cuba, however, we feel that your concern is very valid and eye opening. The political situation in Cuba will be discussed at a meeting before the trip and these issues and hints will be shared.

Once again we thank you for your letter and concerns. We realize that this is not exactly what you had hoped for as a decision, but please know your letter certainly has raised consciousness.

The Council would like to encourage you, and anyone in the College to address issues as they arise to help us help you.

Sincerely,

Jocelyn Dance
President St. James Student Council

Sports Marketing Program

For the past three years George Brown College has been running a Sports Marketing Program to be only one of its kind in North America.

Entry into the eight-month course is restricted to those who already possess marketing experience.

The program was created because of the industry need for better Sports and Event Marketers.

Faculty members and students from this year's program attended a two-day Sports Sponsorship and Marketing Conference held at L'Hotel in Toronto in early November, sponsored by The Canadian Institute.

The Conference gave those attending a chance to learn marketing strategies from experts in the field.

Guest speakers included Paul Beeston, President of the World Series Champion Toronto Blue Jays; Bill Watters, Assistant General Manager of the Toronto Maple Leaf; CBC broadcaster Brian Williams; Brain Cooper, Executive Vice-President of the Toronto Argonauts; and Toronto Blue Jays' radio broadcaster Tom Cheek.

Other speakers ranged from media executives to lawyers to presidents of advertising groups.

The main word which kept arising at the conference was "Partnerships". Several of the guest speakers focused on this word because they believe at present there has been a lack of communication between those in the sports industry.

This miscommunication can lead to a lack of credibility and trust or create friction between corporate and sports organizations, or perhaps even lawsuits.

The best way to avoid such situations is through good communication skills. For example, sponsor should tell team and event organizers exactly what they expect for their involvement. Also, athletes and their agents should make sure they both understand what they want.

The event was put on by The Canadian Institute, the largest organizer of conference and seminars in the country for senior business executives and professionals.

Besides the partnership theme, other main points raised at the conference included:

- the fact that the recession has forced corporate sponsors to be more cautious about where and they spend their advertising dollars
- how corporations can better market their products in the sports industry

Those representing George Brown at the Conference agreed that it was both educational and entertaining.

For more information on George Brown's Sports Marketing Program, contact Peter Burgess at 867-2135 in The School Of Business.

SPORTS UPDATE

DECEMBER 1992

VARSITY

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL

After one exhibition game, three regular season games, and a tournament, the team is out of the gate with a 4-2 record.

Losing their season opener to Seneca 61 - 47, the women bounced back to defeat Conestoga 66 - 50 and Durham College 57 - 52 in overtime.

At the Durham tournament, the team had to settle for second place losing to Redeemer in the final 60 - 57.

MEN'S BASKETBALL

The men's team are winless after four league games. It would appear that there is alot of hard work ahead. The talent is there, it just has to come together.

Coach DaSilva said, "At the present time we are going through some team and individual adversities: We must work harder together and understand that this is a team game, and that personalities have to be left at home.

SOCCER STUFF

The men's team scrimmages every tuesday at Casa Loma campus from 5 - 7 p.m.

All are welcome for a run.

The Kensington gym is available for the women's programme every thursday from 3:30 p.m to 5:30 p.m.

MEN'S VOLLEYBALL

Although it is early in the season, this year's team is already showing signs of being a contender for the playoffs. Untimely injuries and a lack of height is going to mean some hard and aggressive work a head Coach Lotocky feels confident that the team could go all the way.

If there are any interested players out there the men's team practice Mon & Wed 7p.m - 9p.m. at St. James campus.

WOMEN'S VOLLEYBALL

On November 7th. the women's team played in an exhibition tournament at Redeemer College. They played three very tough matches and didn't fare well losing all of them.

Coach Cavers was encouraged by their performance and feels better results lie ahead.
